GRIFF FATAL TO INTERSERIES PLAN

Garry Herrmann's Project Is Killed By the "Old Fox"-Manager of Climbers Declares Such a Project Would Be Death to the Game.

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

Clark Griffith, manager of the Climbers, is responsible for the death of the proposed intersectional series between baseball leagues. In New ork yesterday the International League killed the idea, but only after he Old Fox had taken Ed Stein, the Buffalo magnate; Sammy Lichtenheim, the Montreal owner, and Ed Barrow, president of the circuit, into ide corners and filled their ears with his ideas. Furthermore, it was Clark criffith who killed the idea in the big leagues, which seemed willing to onsider the project of Garry Herrmann.

Mere hippodrome.

It is well that the International League has killed the intersectional series proposed by well-meaning but short-sighted folks. Baseball depends for its support on the annual campaign for the pennant. Intersectional games beginning in August would eliminate this interest and soon the two leagues would be in a bad way. Ed Barrow is to be congratulated on having the idea slaughtered by his league,
